The final days of 1941 were among the darkest of World War Two. Pearl Harbor was in flames and the Pacific fleet was in disarray. The Philippines and Singapore were in the crosshairs. Wake Island and Hong Kong were under siege. The Japanese were on the march everywhere and hope was in short supply. America desperately needed heroes — it would find them in the Flying Tigers.

This small obscure band of volunteer pilots from the United States were striking back against Japan, sweeping enemy bombers from the skies over China. Until that moment, few at home had ever heard their name. Yet suddenly, everyone was asking:

Who are these Flying Tigers?
